Huawei Seeds For The Future

At the very beginning I want to say thank you Huawei for this two weeks. I had no idea about Chinese culture life and environment. And now I can say that I love them all.

Seeds For The Future program has excited me and I think that it has become a big step on my way to become an excellent world citizen. I was very excited by Beijing size, appearance and people. I personally think that not the place makes the people, but people make the place. Despite of the fact that almost nobody speaks the same languages with me on the street people always have found the way to help me and to express their ideas. I want to mention, that Alex (our guide in Beijing) become a really good friend for all of us and made our journey very comfortable and extremely interesting. Of course during one week it is impossible to learn Chinese language and culture but the interest that was caused by it makes me wish to continue learning this wonderful language.

Chinese tea is absolutely wonderful and I can fall in love to China only for it. Furthermore you should never trust your eyes when you are looking to the food in China. Your eyes will definitely lie to you. You should try everything because that it is the only way to understand what do you eat. My favorite dish in Beijing was Beijing duck but I hope to come back and to discover something else.

Shenzhen is absolutely different from Beijing. There are more people here speaking english language that makes the life easier. Also it is a very modern city that attracts me by its architecture and climate. The nature in China is awesome. That is really great that all these wild animals and plants are in harmony with modern buildings and machines.

Despite of the fact that I had an experience in manufacturing high technological goods (PCBs), boards, it-products, soldering during visit to Huawei I didn't stop wondering and opening new details about the process. Huawei's policy makes the client the most important person and it differs Huawei from all the rest ICT companies. If I once build my own company I will definitely choose Huawei as a vendor because then I will be sure that all the process is clear and both of us will benefit on this.

Huawei spent a huge amount of money for young specialists to make them familiar with their culture and technology. That is extremely important nowadays because only practice makes perfect. Thank you very much Huawei.
